TO BRING . . .

You get some sweet treats here. But not the - devour it in secret and hate yourself afterwards - kind. Those you have to bring yourself.

We have some basic hair dryers. If you need to tame your mane, you might want to bring your own.

Want to feel like home? You might want to bring your slippers. Leave your stuffed animal at home, though. That's just weird.

Please do not use our shower towels for the lake. Mess up your own. And don't you dare shaking the sand out indoors.

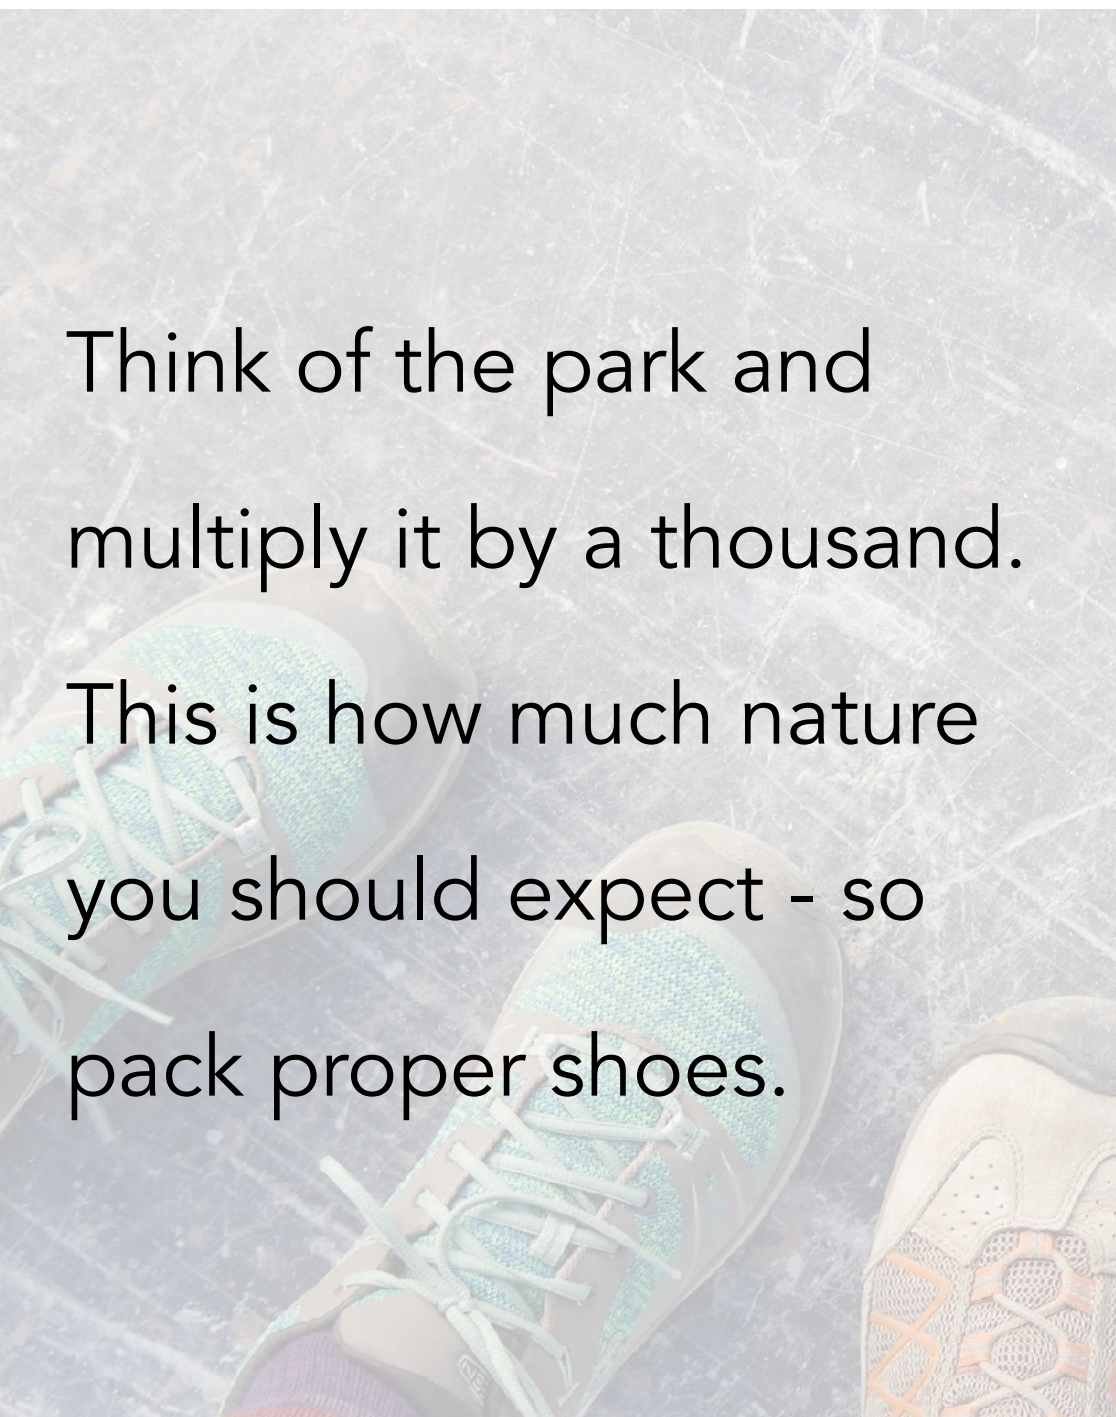

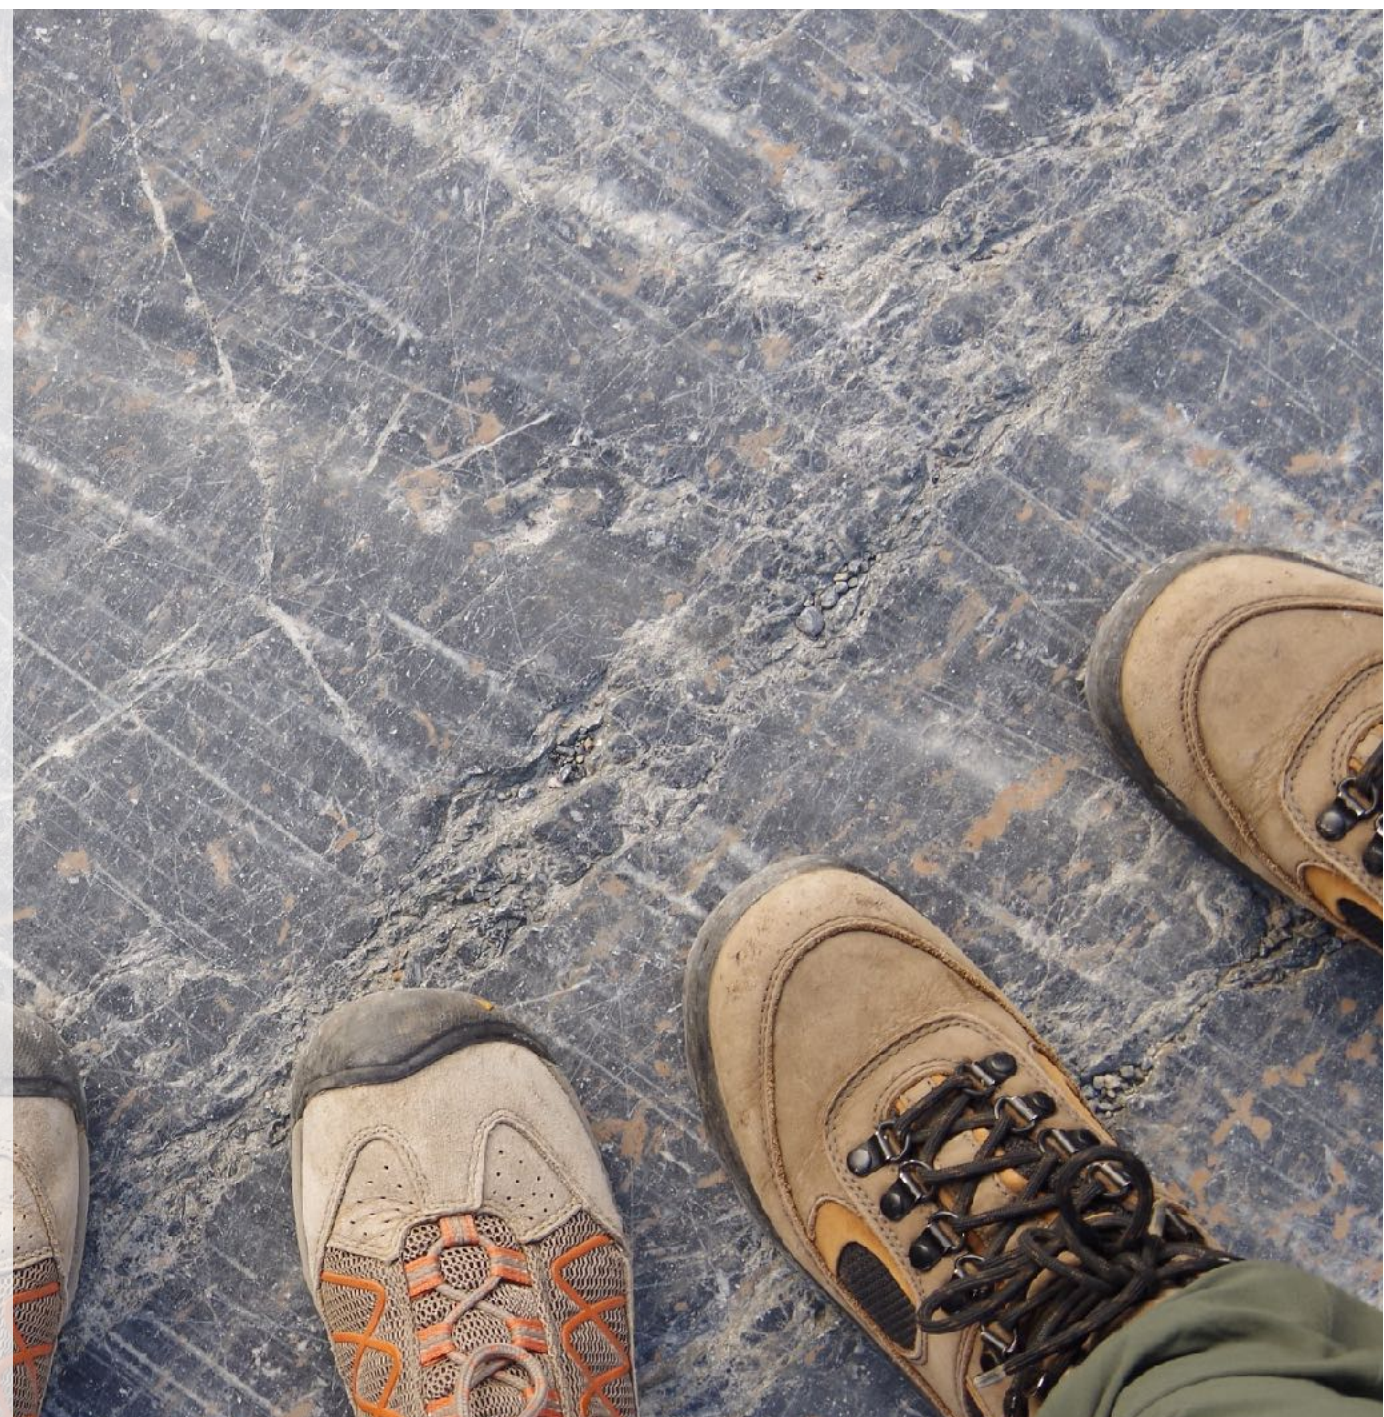

Yes, this is Brandenburg.
Please still bring your swim suits if you want to take a dip in the lake.
The neighborhood does not need a - best of Berlin - show.

You like big mats
and you cannot lie?
Well these fellows can't supply. Please bring your own sports necessities.

Think of the park and
multiply it by a thousand.
This is how much nature
you should expect - so pack proper shoes.

The Brandenburg sun
can be shining. It's true.
Quite a lot even. So if you don't want to cry in front of your colleagues (and be stupid), bring sunscreen.

We do have a collection of lonely left-over beauty products from your predecessors for you to use up. But generally bring your own tooth brush, nail clipper, shampoo and whatever makes you feel human.

To prevent going full turkey on your social media addiction and risk loosing a *like*, bring your own charging device (and mention us while your at it )

You are super sweet and not prepared to stay indoors all evening? We have a very normal sized but nevertheless actively socializing mosquito community. So bring some repellent.

No innovative team work without a ping pong table they said. So we did it - we got one. You need to bring your own rackets, though - if you dare.

A photograph of a bicycle leaning against a metal railing on a bridge. The bicycle is heavily decorated with various items: a black computer keyboard is attached to the frame, and numerous analog clocks of different colors (gold, silver, black) and sizes are mounted on the handlebars, seat, and wheels. The wheels are also covered in many small, circular metal discs, each engraved with a date. A red sign with white text is attached to the front wheel. The background shows a canal and buildings in a city, likely Amsterdam.

OR NOT TO BRING

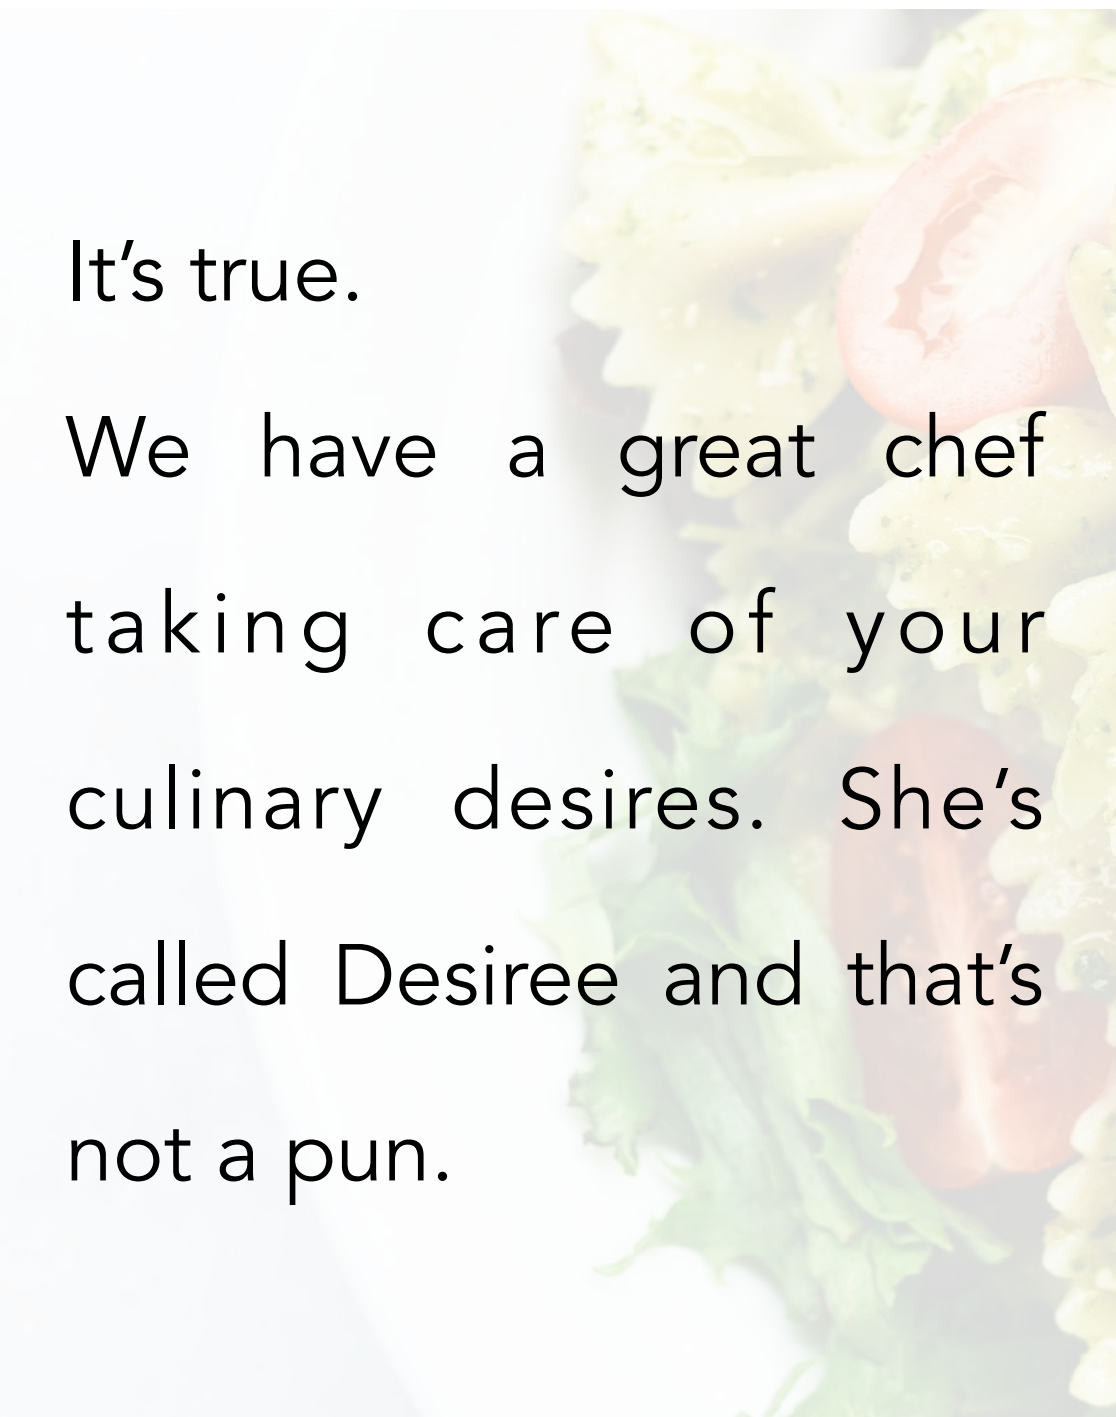

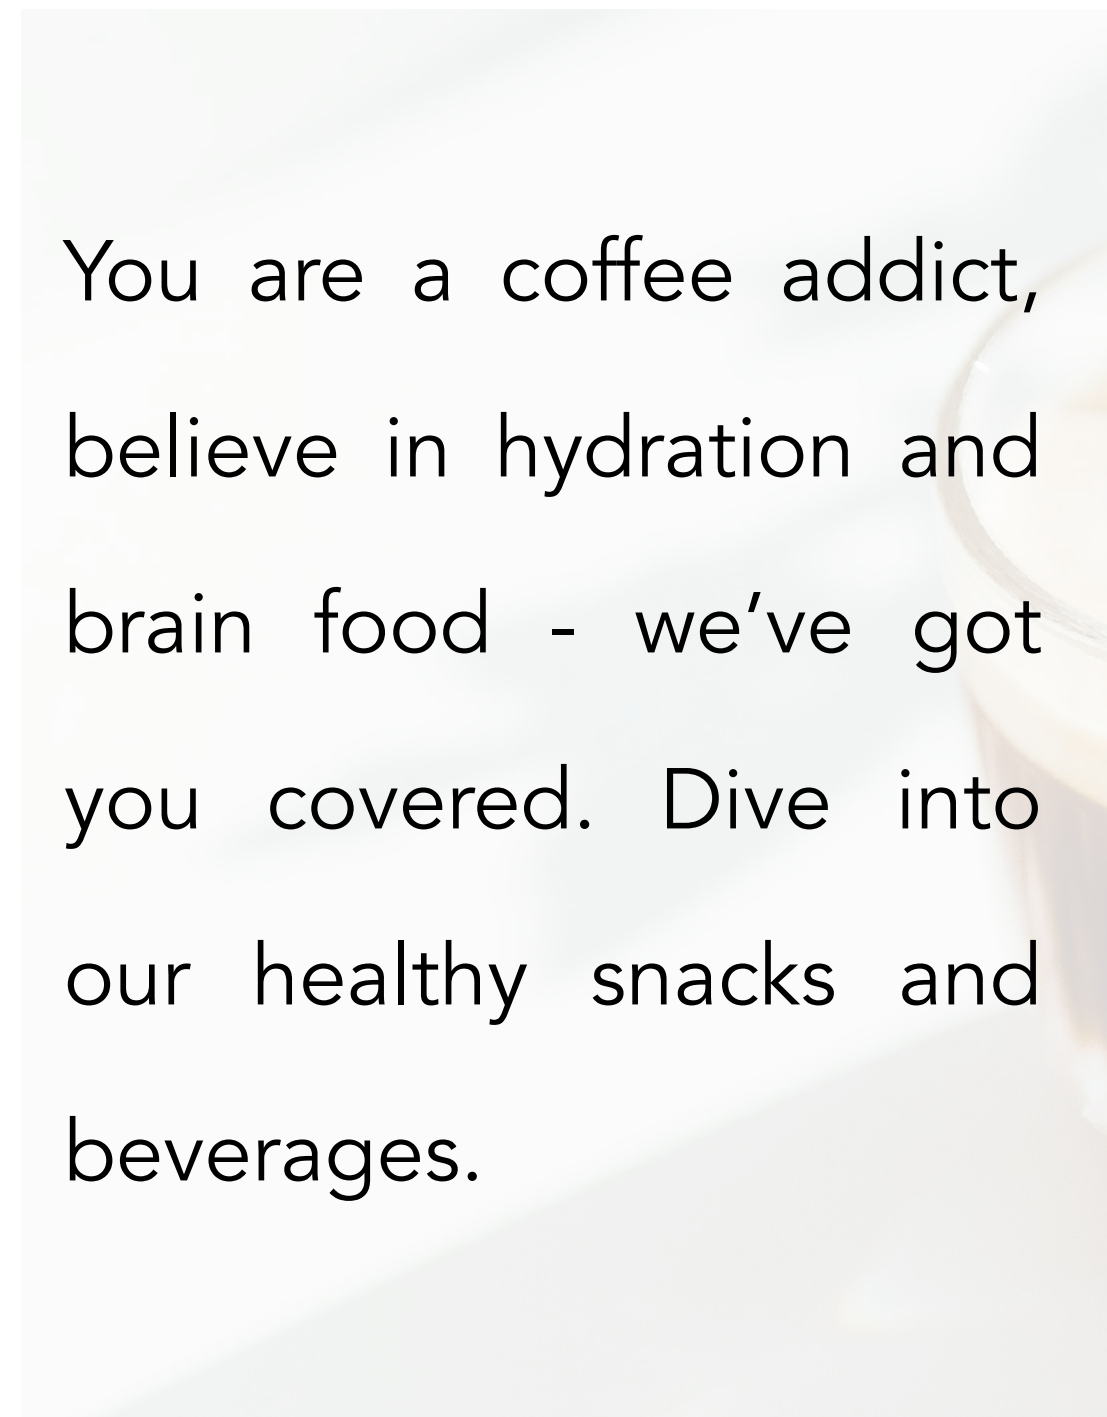

Showering every once in a while is considered thoughtful towards your colleagues. So we provide shower towels - for each of you!! And even bathrobes upon request.

We're not barbaric - obviously you have fresh sheets and bedding waiting for you.

It's true. We have a great chef taking care of your culinary desires. She's called Desiree and that's not a pun.

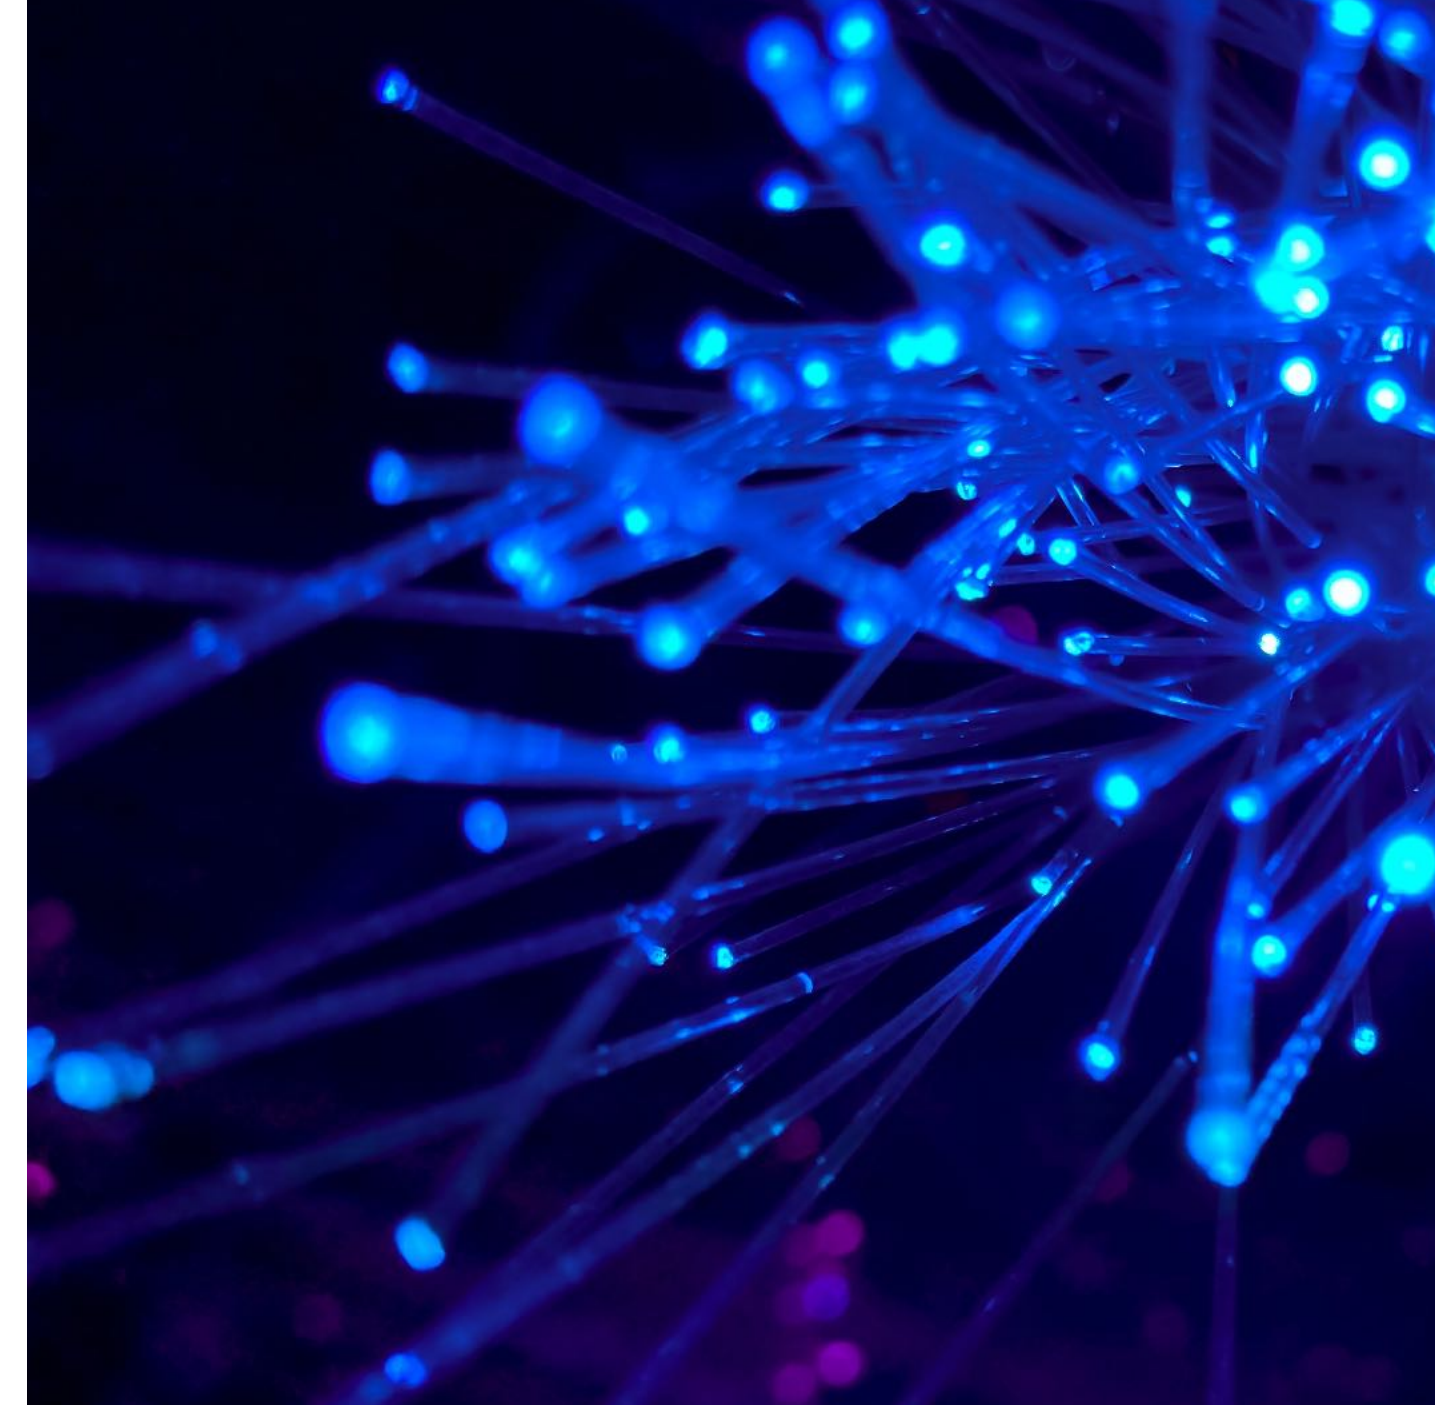

You are a coffee addict, believe in hydration and brain food - we've got you covered. Dive into our healthy snacks and beverages.

You have a weak case to argue and need some fancy slides to hide that fact. No worries, we have a beamer and connectors.

Do we have Wifi?
Does the Pope live in Rome? Of course we do - and an excellent one as it is.

Do we have a moderation box? We're not amateurs, we have a truckload of workshop and prototyping material + some cool gadgets to discover.

Start your morning with some cheerful tunes, log in a colleague from the other side of the globe or make a grand speech. We've got speakers, microphones and web cams.

You have a fancy ride?
You can park and even charge (e-car) with us.
There is a fuel station 3 km away - also remember that if you need to stock up on cigarettes.

You like conference tables, shouting at interns, autocratic decision making? No can do. We got whiteboards (also digital) and other super innovative gear instead.

Yes you are smart, innovative and super successful. Sure. But that's just 20%. The remaining 80% of you is plain water. Like everyone else. So use our drinking bottles to keep it that way.

Culture is important to you. We get it. To a point. We've got wine, beer and sundowners for you - not enough to make you misbehave though.
